NFSMI PRESENTS

Emergency Management

Satellite Seminar
November 16, 2007

National Food Service
Management Institute
The University of Mississippi

Program Information

As a school nutrition professional you must respond immediately when there is an emergency in your operation. Are you prepared? Do you have a written emergency management plan in place?

Emergencies come in many forms and degree of severity, so it's important to develop a flexible plan that can be easily adapted to any situation. By using the information presented in this program, you will be ready to develop a written plan that will help you and your staff manage emergencies in your foodservice operation.

Target Audience

The NFSMI invites all foodservice assistants, managers, and directors, school administrators, and state agency staff to view the satellite seminar.

Free Registration

Registration is required. Upon registration you will receive:

- Satellite coordinates
- Participant handouts
- Webcast information
- Online pre and post evaluation survey

To register go to www.nfsmi.org.
