

Call for Abstracts

The Mississippi Philosophical Association (MPA) is now seeking abstracts for presentations at the annual meeting on February 5-6, 2010 on the Mississippi State Campus in Starkville, MS.

This year's theme is environmental ethics, broadly construed, and presentations that address any concern in environmental ethics will be considered for the program. Presentations may be practically or theoretically oriented, and topics may be purely philosophical or inter-disciplinary.

Each presenter will be given 40 minutes on the program, of which 25-30 minutes will be dedicated to the reading of the paper, with the other 10-15 minutes dedicated to participant responses.

While the MPA is a regional organization, we seek broad participation in this conference and philosophers from all institutions and locations are welcome to submit abstracts.

Submissions should include a title page with title of submission, author name, institution, email address, and postal address. A 500 word abstract should be prepared for blind review and be sent as a separate file.

Email submissions in .doc or .pdf format to trisha.phillips@msstate.edu by 11:59pm CT on November 30. Any questions regarding submissions can be sent to the same email address.

Authors will be notified regarding submissions by December 15.

For more information about the Mississippi Philosophical Association see:
<http://www.olemiss.edu/orgs/mpa/>

For more information about the Mississippi State University see:
<http://www.msstate.edu/>