Why go through all that business of setting it up at Powers, only to disassemble and set it up again, elsewhere? Because with large acquisitions of identical CPU’s, I can test, install SW on, and configure several systems simultaneously, thereby greatly reducing man-hours invested, while maintaining high quality, and standardization. It also permits us to intercept any bad units early and get warranty service before some faculty member has gotten addicted to the machine, and becomes unwilling to give it up!